Which kind of medical plan serves you best?

When thinking about your medical plan during open enrollment this fall, consider how it aligns with your values, and how the structure of the plan could influence your overall care. You have a few kinds of medical plans to choose from, which are described below.

Usually, you must live in the plan’s service area to enroll. If you have eligible dependents, they must enroll in the same plan as you. Generally, once you choose your plan, you must stay enrolled for the entire year (unless you qualify for a special open enrollment).

Whichever plan you choose, you can decide where to receive care. We encourage you to research different providers and places of service, and whether they are in the plan’s network. Some might charge a different amount for the same services. Call the plan’s customer service or use your plan’s online cost transparency tool to help you estimate your expenses at different providers. You can also find costs for nearly 100 medical treatments and services at the Washington Health Care Compare website at wahealthcarecompare.com. After you search for a treatment, be sure to use the “Estimate what you might pay” feature to get results specific to your plan’s coverage.

Managed-care plans
Managed-care plans usually require you to choose a primary care provider (PCP) in their network to meet or coordinate your health care needs. Generally, you must get a referral from your PCP to see other providers. Some outpatient specialty services are available in network medical offices without a referral. You can change PCPs at any time, for any reason, within the network.

This type of plan may not pay benefits if you see a provider outside the network (except for emergency services). These plans are good options if you value the convenience of having several providers in one location who can coordinate your care for you. The following are managed-care plans. (They are not available to Medicare enrollees.)

- Kaiser Permanente NW Classic
- Kaiser Permanente WA Classic, SoundChoice, and Value

Preferred provider organization (PPO) plans
PPOs usually allow you to see any approved provider. However, you will usually pay less if the provider contracts with the plan. These plans are good options if you value the freedom to see a variety of providers. While you may not be required to choose a primary care provider with these plans, doing so can help catch issues early and guide you through the health system. You can confirm whether a provider is in-network before your visit by using the online provider search or calling the plan’s customer service. The following are PPO plans.

- UMP Classic
- UMP Select (not available to Medicare enrollees)
- UMP Plus–Puget Sound High Value Network and UMP Plus–UW Medicine Accountable Care Network (not available to Medicare enrollees)

Consumer-directed health plans (CDHPs)
CDHPs have lower monthly premiums and a higher annual deductible than other types of plans. A major feature of a CDHP is a health savings account (HSA), which allows you and your employer (if applicable) to deposit money tax free. You may use your HSA to pay for certain medical expenses, including some your plan may not cover.

These plans may be good options for you if you do not have many health care expenses or are willing to pay out of pocket for expenses before meeting your deductible. The following are CDHPs. (They are not available to Medicare enrollees.)

- Kaiser Permanente NW CDHP
- Kaiser Permanente WA CDHP
- UMP CDHP

For Medicare enrollees
These medical plans are for PEBB retirees and continuation coverage members enrolled in Medicare Part A and Part B. We offer several types of plans to support your Medicare coverage. They interact with Medicare in different ways, called “coordination of benefits.” In general, these plans offer more benefits and help lower your costs for covered services.

Original Medicare plans pay for your care after Medicare pays. They include prescription drug coverage. The PEBB Program offers:

- Kaiser Permanente WA Original Medicare (managed care)
- UMP Classic (PPO)

Medicare Advantage plans cover the same services as Original Medicare Part A and Part B and include prescription drug coverage. They also offer benefits that Original Medicare does not cover, like gym memberships. You won’t need to submit claims because these plans coordinate with Medicare for you. The PEBB Program offers:

- Kaiser Permanente NW Senior Advantage (managed care)
- Kaiser Permanente WA Medicare Advantage (managed care)

Medicare Supplement plans pay most of the deductibles, coinsurance, and copays for services covered by Medicare Parts A and B. These plans may also offer some additional benefits, but these are less extensive than other Medicare plans. Medicare Supplement plans do not include prescription drug coverage. Now that Plan F is closed to new members, the PEBB Program offers this plan:

- Premera Blue Cross Medicare Supplement Plan G

To compare benefits and costs between these plans, visit the HCA website at hca.wa.gov/erb and select your member type (public employee, retiree, or continuation coverage). Then click on Medical plans and benefits.

Don’t overlook your vision benefits

An annual eye exam is an essential part of your overall health care. Even if you don’t wear glasses or contacts, an eye exam can find early signs of glaucoma or cataracts. And besides ensuring your eyes are getting the attention they need, an eye exam can detect more than 35 other health problems, including diabetes, thyroid disease, high blood pressure, high cholesterol, and neurological issues.

What your vision benefit covers

All PEBB medical plans offer an annual eye exam; some require copays or coinsurance. Glasses or contact lenses are covered up to $150 every two years. Some plans require a fitting fee for contact lenses. However, UnitedHealthcare plans cover glasses and contact lenses up to $300 every two years.

If your contact lenses are medically necessary, meaning you can’t wear glasses to correct your vision, the lenses are covered up to the allowed amount when you see an in-network provider.

Basic glasses or a year’s supply of contact lenses for children under age 19 are covered up to the allowed amount when you see an in-network provider.

You’ll find plan comparisons, links to the plans’ certificates of coverage (also called benefits booklets), and links to their websites on the HCA website. Visit hca.wa.gov/erb and click on your member type (employee, retiree, or continuation coverage). To find a provider, check the plan’s website.

Get moving with the SmartHealth Washington Moves event

Join the SmartHealth Washington Moves event from May 16 through 27. This event is for all SmartHealth participants — all ages and abilities.

Any type of movement that gets you breathing harder and your heart beating faster for about 25 minutes at a time counts. Walking, dancing, chair aerobics, rowing, whatever you like. Movement supports your quality of life. It can help improve your mental health by lowering stress, and lower your risk of conditions like heart disease, diabetes, and cancer. Track any activity that gets your heart beating and earn 200 points. Sign in at smarthealth.hca.wa.gov to get started!
Could a stroke happen to you?

May is Stroke Awareness month. The Washington State Department of Health defines a stroke as “a brain attack, caused when an artery is blocked by a clot or bursts — and part of the brain starts to die.” The American Stroke Association lists stroke as the fifth highest cause of death and the leading cause of disability nationally. Someone in the U.S. has a stroke every 40 seconds, on average.

A stroke can happen to anyone, but there are factors that put you at a higher risk. Here are a few of the major ones:

- High blood pressure, which often has no symptoms
- High cholesterol
- Diabetes
- Lifestyle factors, such as weight, diet, physical activity, smoking, and alcohol consumption

Reduce your risk

The good news is there are steps you can take to reduce your risk factors for stroke. In addition to living a healthy lifestyle, you can also visit your doctor for regular preventive care checkups to watch for elevated blood pressure or cholesterol or pre-diabetes. The Diabetes Prevention Program is another great resource. The digital lifestyle change program is personalized to help you reach your goals. It combines the latest technology with ongoing support to help you build healthy habits that last. Learn more at hca.wa.gov/prevent-diabetes.

Warning signs

One very important thing you can do is to learn the warning signs of a stroke so you can act quickly if needed. To remember the warning signs of a stroke, think F.A.S.T.

For more information, visit the American Stroke Association at stroke.org.

Other symptoms of stroke include a sudden onset of:

- Numbness or weakness of face, arm, or leg, especially on one side of the body.
- Confusion or trouble understanding speech.
- Trouble seeing in one or both eyes.
- Trouble walking, dizziness, or loss of balance or coordination.
- Severe headache with no known cause.

Be proactive about your health with preventive care

Did you know that staying on top of your preventive care is one of the best things you can do for your health? When you check in with your providers regularly, you’re more likely to catch concerns before they turn into major problems. If you don’t already get an annual physical to check blood pressure and cholesterol, that’s a great place to start.

It’s also important to talk with your provider about screenings for diabetes, colorectal cancer, and prostate or breast cancer. A primary care provider helps prevent, detect, and treat conditions early, promoting your health and well-being. If you need to find a provider, access your plan’s online directory by visiting hca.wa.gov/erb and clicking Find a provider under your member type (employee, retiree, or continuation coverage). Your health plan covers many preventive care services at no cost to you if you use an in-network provider.
We send you this newsletter three times a year to give you news about your benefits — rule changes, new plans, updated tools, and tips to help you get the most from your health care. In the fall issue you get everything you need for the annual open enrollment, including the new premiums.

If you’re receiving a print copy in the mail, consider signing up for the email version instead. It arrives sooner, doesn’t clutter up your mailbox, and has the added benefit of helping reduce the toll on the environment. You’ll also receive wellness tips and invitations to participate in surveys and focus groups.

To sign up for email delivery, visit PEBB My Account at hca.wa.gov/my-account. Under the Subscriber account information section, select Subscribe (or unsubscribe) to email notifications.

Update your mailing address

Even if you get For Your Benefit by email, keeping your mailing address updated is important. The PEBB Program and your health plans mail personal information to you, such as changes to your coverage or service area, important alerts, notices about eligibility, invoices, and ID cards. Learn how to update your address at hca.wa.gov/address-change-let-us-know.

Prepare for summer adventures

As we near the summer months, most of us are looking forward to vacations, whether to the next town over or across the world. Have you thought about preparing in case you need to access health care while you are away from home? Here are some ideas to get you started:

- Pack your health plans’ ID cards.
- Note your plans’ toll-free and local numbers in case you need to use them. If you are traveling internationally, be sure you are comfortable with making international calls.
- Pack prescription drugs and medications in the original bottle or package, and if you are going to be gone for an extended time, ask your plans about getting extra refills.
- Wear a medical ID bracelet for any allergies or special medical needs.
- Research any travel restrictions or other requirements, such as restrictions related to COVID-19 or required vaccinations.
- Pack sunscreen! Skin cancer affects people from all walks of life and, according to the Skin Cancer Foundation, your risk doubles if you’ve had more than five sunburns.
Retirement planning
Don’t forget your health insurance

If you’re retiring this year, consider your health insurance after your current coverage ends. PEBB retiree insurance coverage is one option you should consider.

Am I eligible?
To apply for PEBB retiree insurance coverage, you must be vested in and eligible to retire from a Washington State-sponsored retirement plan, such as the Public Employees’ Retirement System (PERS), when your employer-paid coverage, COBRA, or continuation coverage ends. In most cases, you must also immediately start to receive a monthly retirement plan payment to be eligible.

What do I do?
Contact your retirement plan about six months before you end employment to make sure you’re eligible to retire or separate.

Contact the Social Security Administration about 90 days before your 65th birthday to sign up for Medicare. If you or a covered dependent are age 65 and eligible for Medicare, you must enroll and stay enrolled in Part A and Part B to enroll in or remain eligible for PEBB retiree insurance coverage. If you are employed when you near your 65th birthday, we will send you a letter explaining what to do.

About 60 days before your employee or continuation coverage ends, call the PEBB Program to request the PEBB Retiree Enrollment Guide, which includes enrollment forms, or download the guide and the necessary forms from the PEBB retiree webpages (see “Resources,” right).

The guide will provide a general summary of retiree eligibility, enrollment processes, monthly premiums, which plans are available to you, and a comparison of plans. As a retiree, you’ll have a different set of medical plans to choose from, but the benefits and structure are similar to your employee plan options.

How do I enroll?
Submit the PEBB Retiree Election Form (form A) and any required documents to the PEBB Program. Except as noted below for the Medicare Advantage Plan, we must receive forms and documents no later than 60 days after your employer-paid coverage, COBRA, or continuation coverage ends. Your retiree insurance coverage will be retroactive to your retirement date (the day after your other coverage ends).

Exception: If you plan to enroll in a Medicare Advantage plan, we must receive Form A and the PEBB Medicare Advantage Plan Election Form (form C) no later than the last day of the month in which your employer or continuation coverage ends. You may need to choose a different medical plan if we don’t receive the forms by this deadline.

The PEBB Program cannot enroll you until we receive your first payment of monthly premiums and applicable premium surcharges. If you choose to pay by pension deduction and receive an invoice, you must make the first payment by the deadline on the invoice.

Can I wait?
If you are eligible, you can defer (postpone) enrollment in PEBB retiree insurance coverage while you are enrolled in other qualifying coverage, such as federal retiree coverage or a spouse’s insurance. You must submit Form A to defer your enrollment. If we do not receive Form A by the required deadline, you could lose your right to enroll in PEBB retiree insurance coverage later.

Where can I learn more?
Sign up for a webinar on the HCA website at hca.wa.gov/retiree-webinars. You’ll learn:

• Who’s eligible.
• Your medical and dental plan choices.
• How retiree medical plans differ from employee plans.
• Monthly premiums to cover yourself and your family.
• How and when to enroll or defer.
• How and when you can use COBRA if you’re retiring early.
• What happens if you work past age 65.
• When you can change plans or add dependents.
