#	Section	Bidder Questions	HCA Answers
1	Exhibit D	Exhibit D requires three work references demonstrating effective youth engagement and system of care values implementation. Then it asks for letters of support from community representatives demonstrating their support for the project proposal. Can these work references and letters of support be in one document per reference/supporter of the proposal? For a total of 3 and not 6? What is required in the work reference document other than name and contact information?	The RFA does not specify that the Work References and Letters of Support must be separate documents. As long as the requirements identified in RFA Exhibit A are met, it would be ok for the Work References and Letters of Support to be in one document per reference/supporter. As stated in Exhibit D of the RFA, the Work References are to demonstrate implementation of effective youth engagement and System of Care values.
